

Advanced College Credit

Partnership with Clackamas Community College

The ACC program is a cooperative educational effort between high schools and colleges to offer college-level courses for students to receive pre-approved college credit for some of the classes currently taught in high schools. The courses are taught by approved, qualified high school teachers. Students are eligible for the college credit (known as “dual credit”) if they complete the course curriculum as approved by the college. “Dual credit” is both high school and college credit in most cases. All Oregon community and State System colleges and universities accept the dual credits when properly transferred and submitted on the cooperating college’s official transcript. Students going to private or out-of-state colleges should contact the specific colleges to determine if ACC is transferable.
