Tú

(Spain only)

Usted

Ustedes

Él

Ellos

Ella

Ellas

Notes:

 Tú and Usted mean the exact same thing: YOU

 Tú is used in an informal setting (friends, family, kids), and Usted is used in a formal setting (a stranger, authority figure, adults).

To say the plural of Tú and Usted, use "Ustedes", which means "YOU GUYS" or "YOU ALL"

In Spain, they only use Ustedes in formal situations. In informal situations, they use Vosotros. Vosotros disappeared in Latin America, so they use Ustedes for any time you're talking to more than one person. Think of it this way:

When talking TO a group of people, use Ustedes.

When talking ABOUT a group of people, use Ellos or Ellas.

If a group has all females, you must change the ending to an AS. (Nosotras, Ellas). If the group is mixed male/female, the OS ending applies.
