WEST LINN HIGH SCHOOL YEARBOOK VOL. 75

SEEING THROUGH IT ....ALL

During one of the few sunny days in Oregon, (top to bottom) Sharon Cannon, Hilary Sieker, Allison Brown, Amy Witt, and Tiffany Fisher all shed smiles.

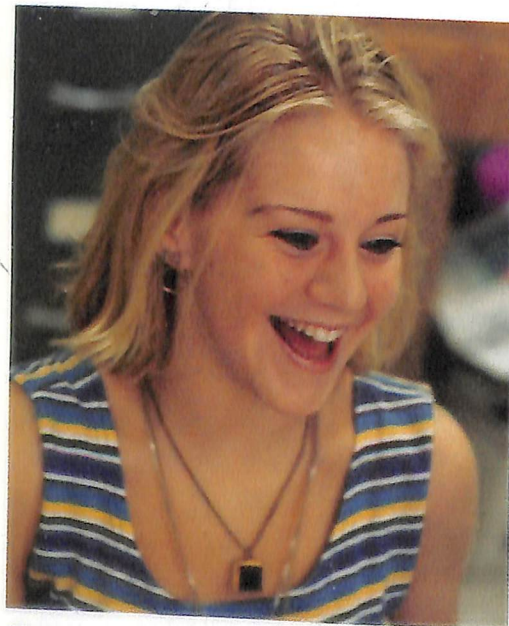

"Hey ladies, what do you think?" John Lewis and Jordan Perry take their spirit to the extreme as Hawaiian hula girls. For the rest of the day, the freshman girls could think of little else.

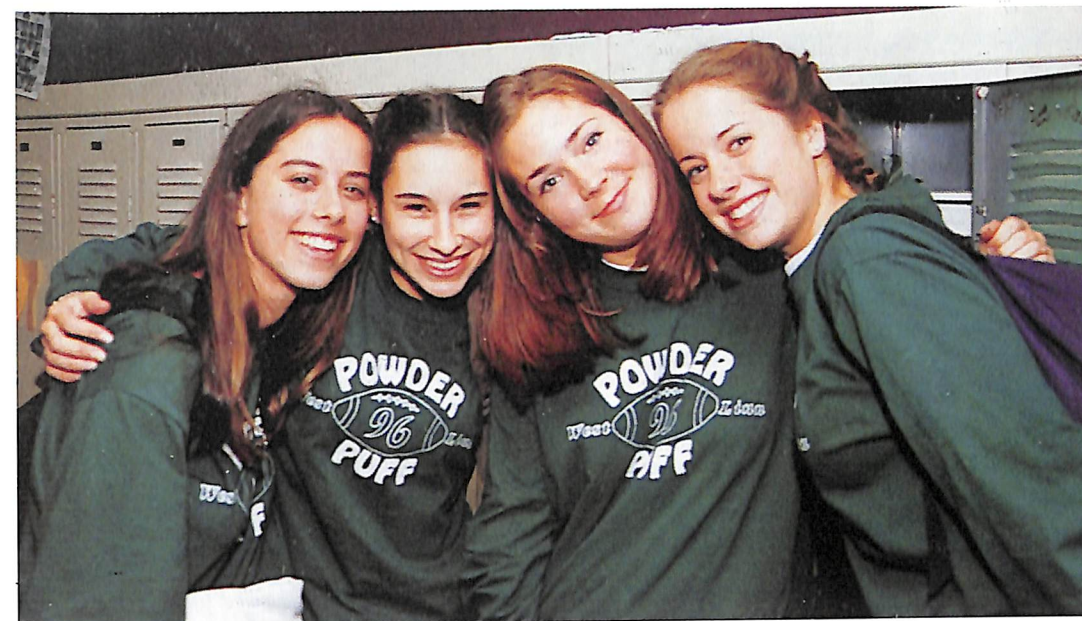

Not all band members are as serious as they look.

Hiding their true identities, these two clowns painted their faces to cheer on the football team.

Shannon Hein is surprised by a classmate while working on homework.

Jasmine Herr, Anne Whitlock, Erin Edwards, and Lindsey Casebeer wear their powder puff shirts on game day. The seniors won the final contest with the juniors. They didn't remember the score, "We just won," said Laura Fuller.

Kelly Reed hangs out in the Commons, waiting for volleyball practice to start.

GASP FOR AIR! Jeff Locke and other band members performed at many school activities throught the year, particularly at pep assemblies and Football games.

Carle Brinkman, Lisa Cooley, Donna Bisson, Trisha Nodurft, Brittany Meyers, and Lindsay Grasvik look on while a fellow student gives a presentation.

GO GREEN AND GOLD! Beth Troxell cheers on the Boys Varsity Basketball team at their last home game before the State competition.

Vandy Hall and Kit Headley give a high Halloween five in the hall.. Halloween is the most widely celebrated dress-up day on the West Linn High School calendar.

Jana Waddell as the typical attractive red-headed farm girl.

Kim Knoefel as Popeye and Denise Lord as Olive Oil. All power to the dresser-uppers.

The class of '97 has seen a number of changes in the West Linn school system, from the opening of Wilsonville High to the instituting of the trimester system. We are all strong-willed individuals and this year has been a year of growth. Our conflicts have reduced significantly, and a sense of respect has laced most of the year.

The fact that we recognize our imperfections is what makes our class outstanding. It is also where our questions about what makes our society and ourselves are generated. We are the future, and we must face a world that is losing respect for young people. The only way we can gain the lost respect is by continuing to ask the questions no one expects. Gabe Carleton Barnes

THE POWER OF THE LION

The football team got off to a stellar start, but lost the edge needed to make the playoffs due in part to injuries of key players.

Behind the strong running of juniors Evan Kelty and Joe Van Meter, the Lions took a stunning victory in dramatic fashion over Metro League powerhouse Glencoe. The Lions then lost a bitter struggle to the Westview Wildcats at home, 15-12. After crushing Rex Putnam in the league opener, Lake Oswego stole a game from the Lions at home on a late field goal. The Lions rebounded to beat Silverton on a last second field goal by senior Johnny Lewis and proceeded to thump Clackamas 28-0. At 4-2 and coming off two solid victories, the Lions were poised to make a run at the 4A State Playoffs. Then disaster struck. Losing homecoming to Lakeridge and being blanked by the hapless Milwaukie

Mustangs, the Lions were on the verge of being eliminated from playoff contention.

The stage was set for the Lions season finale with arch rival Oregon City. At 4-4, the Lions had to win just to break .500 for the season. If the Lions were to entertain any thoughts of the playoffs they were going to have to stifle the high powered attack of Oregon City's Tyler Kemhus and Jason Taroli. The players, adorned with Scottish war paint, were led on the field by a band of four bagpipes preparing them for battle as in the movie Braveheart. The Lions played second ranked Oregon City well, but lost anyway 28-7.

"The seniors were sad at the loss," said captain Marc Cantwell. "It was their last game. It was tough to take and pretty emotional but we felt like we played well." In their fans hearts, however, they have always been awesome.

Tenacious defense: Garrett Stenson, Chad Jenny and Justin Ihrig (#) rally to the ball to make the tackle and bury the offense in the home game against Westview. The final score was 23 to 20.

ASSEMBLIES

For around an hour or so a few times each year, the students of West Linn High School come together to support each other in school wide assemblies. The pep band plays, the cheerleaders dance, and the students cheer as their peers are recognized for their achievements in sports, fine arts, and other categories. "They create a lot of school spirit!" said frosh Brittany Bearson.

The most memorable event was the guys take on cheerleading. "Who would've known we had an all guy cheerleading team?" cheerleader Anne Whitlock said.

By the way, isn't it amazing how the seniors always seem to win the class competitions?

Varsity girl soccer players Sara Christman, Melissa Urdahl, Keeley Steinseifer, Shannon Fay, and have a blast dancing while urging students to attend their next game.

CHEERLEADING

This special group of dedicated girls cheered on the crowd at both home and away games, despite chilly weather and a less than perfect track, as well as pumping up the student body at pep assemblies. "Football games are really fun because the entire student body is there and is really excited about the game," said Megan Green, a first year member of the squad. A special addition this year was sophomore Dan Fullaway, who added a touch of gymnastics to the routines. "The crowd ended up really liking Dan when they saw what he could do!" said Danielle Donovan. Although the football team had their high and low points, the fun never stopped for the cheerleaders. "The whole season was fun, I don't think we ever stopped laughing!" junior Liz Finley said. With most of the group returning next year, the fun will continue.

Powder Puff

Football '96

The ASB convinced the administration to bring back Powder Puff football which had been stopped in the early 80's because of excessive violence. Powder Puff drew a respectable audience, and was a great success despite a few broken noses.

This year Cross Country Coaches asked their teams one question: Have you Got What It Takes?

This question put the Boys and Girls Cross Country Teams to the ultimate test this year. Frankly, they wanted to break some records. With a strong girls team and new but determined boys team, they were ready for victory. Their dreams came true when Jill Rencher led the Girls to a District Championship and amazing 5th in State. The boys weren't far behind as the Three Rivers League runners up. These teams each had outstanding runners and they were determined to win.

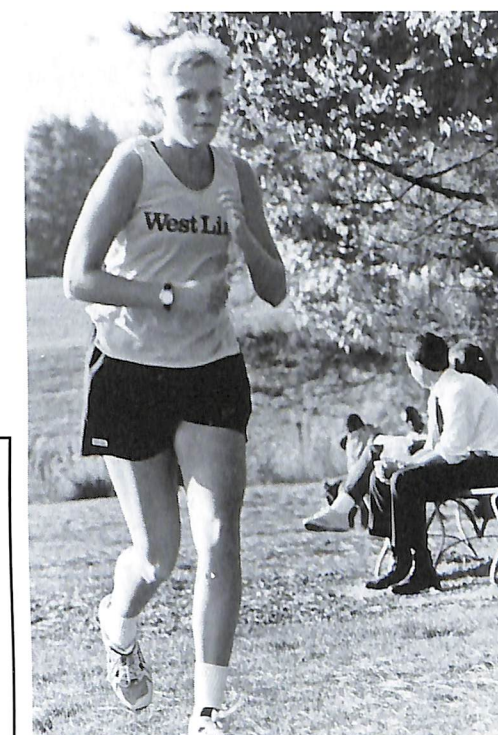

The new coaching staff of Scott Spear (Head Coach) and John Othus (Assistant Coach) clearly boosted this year's team. They started off the year by setting high goals for both teams, and following through with each one. Not even for a second did they lose faith in their runners.

With strong dual meet records of 6-0 (girls) and 5-1 (boys) the year was a tremendous success. Now, the new coaches and talented runners look forward to next year and the glory they will surely receive again. Another winning year under their belts, the Cross Country teams show they've surely got what it takes!

Top: Kerry Lewis prepares to serve the ball to the number one ranked Barlow team. The Lions barely lost this game.

The greatest highlight of the 1996 volleyball season for the Lions was a near upset of defending state champions, Barlow, in the opening round of the state playoffs. The three-time defending league champion Lions finished third in league this year behind champion Clackamas and runner-up Oregon City.

The Lions had to go a long way this year to earn a berth in the state tournament at the Chiles Center. After winning the first sub-tournament match 15-9, 15-7 at home against South Albany, the team had to take to the road. Following convincing victories at South Eugene and North Medford, the Lions were poised to take on Barlow.

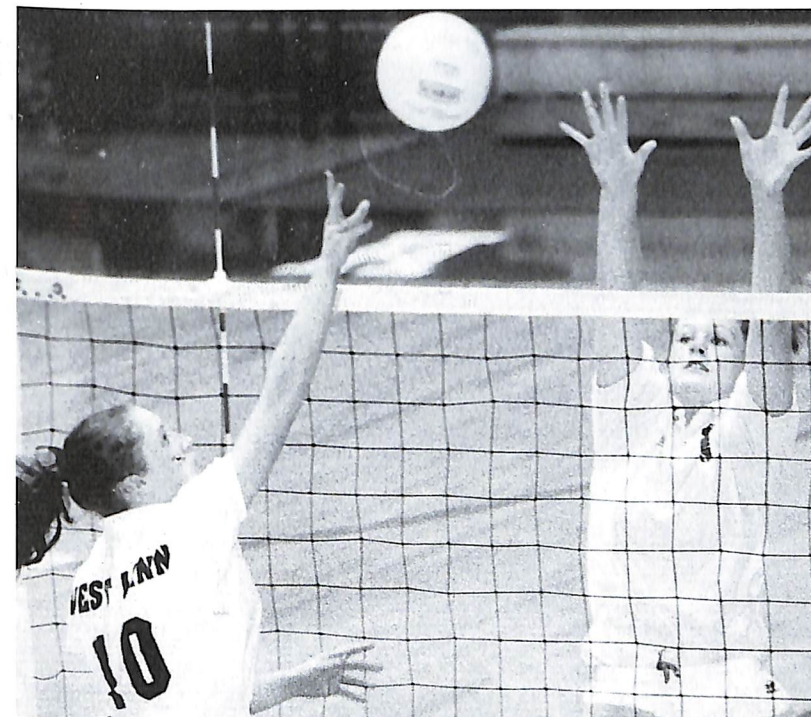

"We showed up very well against Barlow," said senior Jeanie Pacewic. The Lions took the first game 16-14. In the second game, the Lions had Barlow on the ropes, and were poised for an upset. The Lions were up 13-12 and had the serve. Barlow battled back to win 13-15 and knock the wind out of the Lions. Barlow won the final game 8-15.

"We were the only team to take a game off of Barlow and we beat them the first game," Pacewic said. Mountain View knocked the Lions out of the playoffs in three games in the first round of the consolation bracket.

The final standings for this year's team were a far cry from last year's league title and sixth place trophy, but for this young team, it was a great season. Besides Pacewic, the only other senior was Captain Tara Conner. With ten of the twelve players being juniors and seniors, the future looks bright for the Lions.

"Going out in two (at state) was disappointing," Pacewic said. "Overall it was a good year."

Middle Left: What spirit! The JV1 team celebrates a good play. Amy Mattsen, Holly Davidson, and Corey Freeman use their time away from the court to do their homework, although we're sure they would much rather be on the court.

Kerry Lewis spikes the ball to Barlow in what would prove to be the teams last game at the state championship. They went on to play one more consolation game against Mountain View.

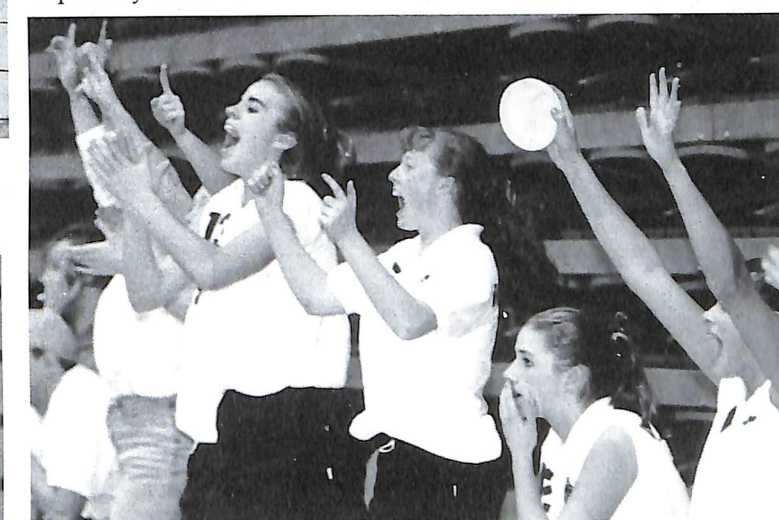

Coach John Welty gives his team of freshman some critical advice at a tough moment for the team. Welty has coached the freshman team for several years, and this team always does well against other schools.

Coach John Kirby tries to motivate the Lions as their chance for victory starts to slip away. The players faces tell of their disappointment with the outcome of the game.

The JV1 team poses for a group picture after a tough game. Freindship is an essential part of being a team, and these players are especially close Holly Davidson, Corey Freeman, Katie Cunningham, and Erin Henry celebrate a point for the Lions in their game against Barlow.

Emily Lawrence, Holly Davidson, Lizzy Cartwright and Tara Conner celebrate a win on their home court. They Lions had a great season: one which they will never forget.

It's all in how you look at it PHOTOGRAPHY

When looking through the lens of a camera, photographers see things in quite a different way. They notice shape, dimension, intricacy and beauty, by courtesy of light. Photographers have recorded through history scenes of black and white. Their photos capture the world and share their thoughts, their feelings, and the things around them that is appealing to their individual eye

This yearbook is full of photographs taken with special care and thought by photo students. Whatever level of experience they are (i.e. Photo 1, 2, 3, and Advanced workshop), there's a special thrill in seeing their work published and appreciated by friends and family. This makes it a popular class. "it's a great experience that you can use for a lifetime and express how you feel," says Sophomore Megan Hancock. Erin Henry adds, "Photography allows you to put your thoughts into pictures."

The class allows students to experiment with the camera, and photograph anything they want. "I like taking pictures of good looking girls," says Mike Gougler. "There's nothing better than seeing that final print developed in the dark room."

Dancing through it all

If you see a person running through the halls in a desperate effort to make it on time to second period, you can count on them just getting out of dance class! Filing in at 8:40 dressed in oh-so-famous black spandex, and immediately having an intense physical workout for 70 minutes are part of the norm for the talented few that can survive Robin's intermediate dance class. Ballet on Mondays and Wednesdays, and learning combinations on the remaining days of the week is the general schedule. "Monday morning ballet is murder!!!" said senior Shannon Fay. There also extra hours put in during access if any assembly is in the near future.

Robin Knight is the instructor, and the glue, that holds the dance program together. Her intense passion for what she does seems to be contagious among her young dancers. The technique, grace, difficulty, and risk taking that the dancers learn is amazing. Dancers are challenged to let go and explore the unknown of the dance world. When they dance, they put certain image in the eye of the beholder. That image may not be the high school student that you see walking the halls that day. It is a fantasy!

Many types of dance are introduced in this class, as well as the Dance A & B level classes during the latter part of the day. Classical ballet, African, jazz, lyrical, and funk are all taught. It is a difficult and trying class and it takes a great amount of coordination and dedication to be a dancer, and in every performance it shows!

Terry Woebke explains a problem to a student in his fourth period Advanced Algebra class

Jeff Sandmeyer works out a problem in his fourth period Algebra class. Many freshman have Algebra with his teacher is Ms. Mack, a relatively new teacher at West Linn.

"Students don't care how much I know until they know how much I care" says Nikki Hudson who has taught at West Linn for eight years. Of the trimester schedule, she says that she likes the smaller classes and the longer periods, but doesn't like to see the students leave as often. She teaches Algebra and Calculus.

Bart Valentine believes that to successfully have kids learn, they need to feel important, and to know that their success is important. He feels that the trimester schedule is good for students, but is also demanding for teachers because of no prep period. Valentine teaches FST, Geometry, and Transition Math.

Stephanie Carter laughs as she attempts the next problem in Mrs. Hudson's Calculus class

Jamie LaVeque teaches FST, Advanced Algebra, and Geometry. He says that the trimester schedule is demanding on teachers but that it's better for the students. He likes to lecture in his classes, demonstrate problems, and leave time for kids to do their homework. He calls it "monotonous repetition"

Nick Kintz teaches Geometry, Advanced Algebra, and FST. He likes the trimester schedule because of the four periods but he doesn't like not having a prep period. His philosophy for teaching is to help students better understand things, then the learning will come easier.

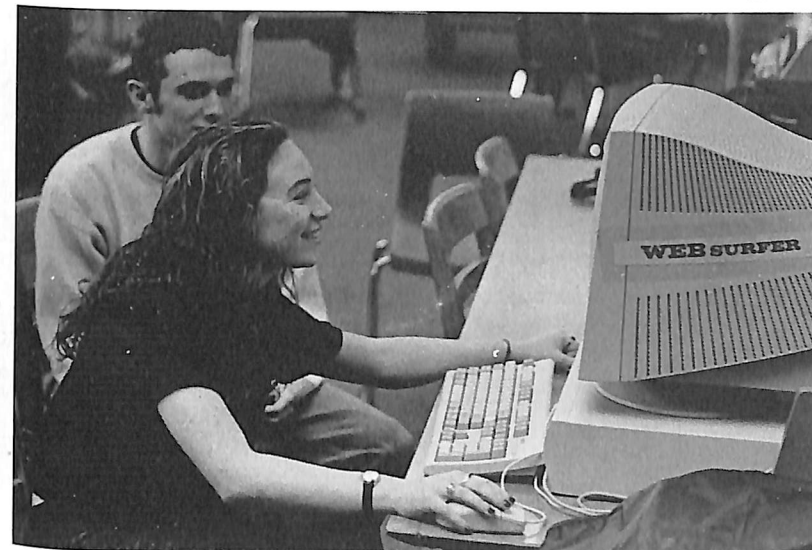

Scott Gonnerman's philosophy on teaching is to provide a structure for the students first so they can organize their thoughts and ideas. He teaches Transition Math, Algebra, Advanced Algebra, and Pre-Calculus. He thinks that the trimester schedule allows the students to do more work with fewer classes, and their day goes by faster. He would like more preptime, which the trimester schedule has taken away.

Marv Walker tries to help students understand the math by modeling concepts clearly. He likes the small classes that the trimester provides but he doesn't like the fast pace.

"Double Deuce" is a familiar phrase in Terry Woebke's Algebra, and Advanced Algebra classes. He's taught here for twenty-four years. He doesn't like the trimester schedule because he says it hurts the kids who aren't good at math. Those kids who aren't good at math need the extra time that the trimester doesn't provide.

"I'm The Quiet One", Cappy Mack says of herself. She has been teaching for three years, two of those here at West Linn. Of the trimester schedule, she says that she likes the longer periods and how the class isn't rushed. She says that in her teaching she tries to satisfy all the kids' abilities but it's hard to make every kid satisfied with the class.

This year has been a big change for West Linn High School's computer system. The whole system has been upgraded from the familiar H.G. Wells, Uclid, Thoreau, Copernicus, O'Conner, Newton, and Rockefeller to simply WLHS 1 and WLHS 2. Also a new computer was bought specifically for giving students internet access. The new "web crawler" computer was bought by the library and the software was purchased by the student body. Now with all this current technology in the school, students can begin to experience the future in computers. They provide skill training for the job market.

Looking up to Leadership

The Leadership class gathered together every morning during early period to plan the activities for the 96/97 school year at WLHS. They helped promote spirit by making posters of up-coming assemblies and events taking place in the school. They accomplished many things to be proud of such as the canned food and clothing drives, the giving tree during the holidays, and all this years assemblies. Even though it was hard for everyone to get to leadership during early period, under the direction of Mr. Hoss they managed to do a great job of representing our school. According to Jenny Hansen "It goes from frantic activity before an event to times when there's nothing to organize and then you wonder why you're at school so early"

Swirling colors streaming from the tips of paint brushes and solid lead lines following the sharp ends of pencils come together in a class aimed at "Giving students opportunities to put their spirit into their work," according to Mrs. Pass, West Linn's dedicated art teacher of five years. With past experience working in hospitals, elementary schools, and volunteering with the elderly, she brings in a wide range of knowledge that is clearly visible in her students' work. With around 330 students enrolled in Art class this year, she is quick to say that she has seen "Really good quality art, including from Art 1 students."

"I enjoy being able to create stuff I want to create, not be told what I can and cannot do," says Daniel LeBlanc, a freshman in Art 1. Beginning art students learn the basics of how to "create" a piece, as well as analysis skills that are put to use in all aspects of life. As they progress through the different levels of the class, different medias are experimented with and art history is closely looked at. Explains Mrs. Pass: "Art helps people understand history and the world, and lets them open up to other cultures and their history. Art is part of humanity."

As for art today, anything goes. "Art can be anything, and that's really exciting!" she says. By testing different techniques, students are allowed to find their niche, but at the same time continue to explore. The ultimate goal of art class? "Not to make artists out of students, but to make them better observers of the world."

YEAR IN REVIEW

Backed by a theater department whose caliber is quite un-heard of in a high school, West Linn High School's directors, actors, technical crews, collaborators and audiences had a truly phenomenal year. It has been a year of trying new and exciting things. Beginning with Seven Brides for Seven Brothers, where actors learned to sing and singers learned to act, the season followed with Skin of Our Teeth, an anti-realistic play written by Thornton Wilder that was a multi-media spectacle, and Great Expectations which was adapted by the cast into a reader's theater-style play. Along the way the Children's Theater troupe toured with their Tall Tales in "Larger than Life," and the spring plays, Charles Aunt and A Woman Mind add to the richness of a challenging, entertaining and thrilling year.

Each season, thirty to forty students collaborated with their directors to produce shows they can be very proud to have been a part of. It was a year of excitement and opportunity for new faces, challenges and leadership for the older actors. The depth of the material which came to life through the magic of the stage was astonishing!

Skin of Our Teeth by Thornton Wilder was the winter show in the auditorium. This bizarre three act play starred Shelbi Wescott, Tate Morgan, Sally Anton, Chris Murray, Beth Martin and Pat Gamble. This nutty play spanned time from the stone ages to the 1960's. Zany costumes and crazy set pieces including a life sized rickshaw made this play one of the best of the year. Many oddball talents went into the creation of this show including Matt Woods' amazing gymnastics, Beth Martin's violent miming, Chris Murray's oral projectile skills, and Logan Miller's new wave painting styles. This show was directed by Cheryl Cantwell and Assistant Directed by senior GABE CARLETON-BARNES.

Play-By-Play

THE 1997 OREGON CLASS 4A STATE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIPS COULD GO DOWN IN OREGON HISTORY AS ONE OF THE GREATEST FINISHES EVER. TIED AT 45 A PIECE, WITH JUST OVER ONE MINUTE LEFT IN THE GAME, SHELDON DELIVERED THE BASKETBALL, AT THE TOP OF THE KEY, TO THEIR BIG MAN WITH THE LIONS' DEFENSIVE PRESSURE. THIS RESULTED IN AN INCREDIBLE STEAL THAT WOULD SET UP THE GO AHEAD BASKET FOR THE LIONS. WITH THE TIME TICKING AWAY THE LIONS PREPARED FOR A LAST MINUTE SHOT. YET, WITH AROUND 30 SECONDS, CAMERON CARR GOT THE BALL AND DROVE TO THE BASKET. HE CONTINUED BY PULLING UP FOR A SHOT. HOWEVER, AT THE VERY LAST SECOND, CARR FOUND JOSH HASKETT UNDER THE BASKET. HASKETT RECEIVED THE GENTLE PASS FROM CARR AND LAYED THE BALL IN THE BASKET FOR A 47-45 LION LEAD. SHELDON'S ANSWER WAS A PASS THAT SAILED OUT OF BOUNDS OFF THE HANDS OF BRYAN MILLS WITH ONLY 7.6 SECONDS REMAINING IN THE

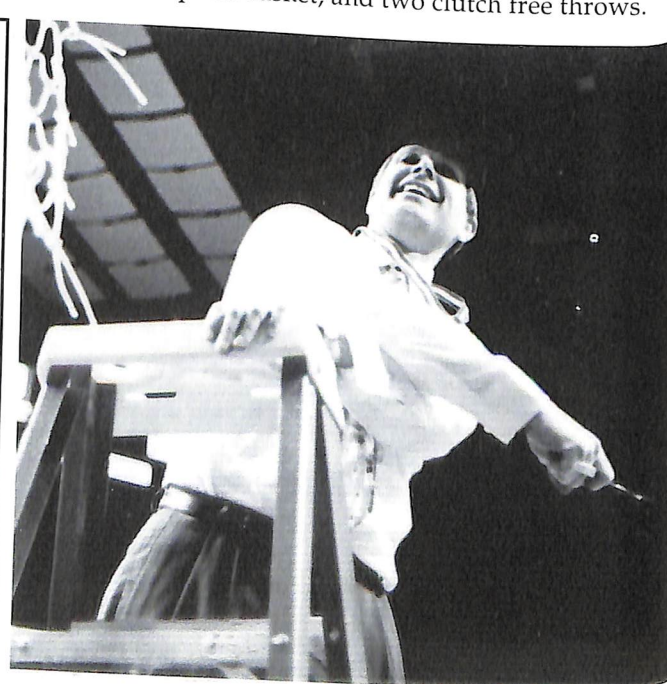

GAME. THE LIONS WOULD NOW HAVE A CHANCE TO GET TWO FREE THROWS TO PUT THE GAME ON ICE. THEY, HOWEVER, HAD PLANS OF THEIR OWN, WHICH INCLUDED A MID-COURT PASS TO HASKETT THAT WENT OFF THE BACKBOARD. THE BALL FOUND ITS WAY INTO CARR'S HANDS, WHO THEN FORWARDED THE BALL TO JARED

VALENTINE. THE RESULT WAS VALENTINE CALMLY STEPPING UP TO THE FOUL LINE, WITH 1.9 SECONDS LEFT, AND KNOCKING DOWN TWO FREE THROWS TO GIVE THE LIONS A 49-45 LEAD AND WIN THE LIONS THEIR FIRST 4A BOYS BASKETBALL STATE TITLE.

TOO TOUGH FOR YOU, JUST RIGHT FOR ME!

By the season's end it was clear that the 1996-97 WLHS wrestlers had gained valuable experience. In fact, with only three seniors, Brandon Hoopes, Grant Richardson, and Ryan Hook this team was quite young. Yet this did not stop the wrestling team from winning the TRL dual-meet and TRL district championships. They pinned the competition. However, at the state meet their inexperience started to show against the rest of the state's powerhouses like Newberg and Canby. But by the end of the OSAA 4A Wrestling State Championship, the Lions found themselves in ninth place. A strong finish for a young team.

"There was a big clump of teams, all placing very close together, right where we were," said Head Coach Dave Sandville. "You could have gone up or down a place, simply based on a few tenths of a point." The Lion wrestlers were, in fact, a few tenths of a point from fourth place.

With the loss of only three seniors, this team will show their experience next year. The likelihood of the team being district champs again and finishing higher at state looks very good.

This year's edition of the Ski Team was a young one. Out of the twenty-nine members, only three were upper classman. The most noteworthy of whom was Matt Pearson, who lit up the slopes. Matt finished second in five consecutive races, followed by a third place finish. Matt missed the next three races because he was qualifying for the Junior Olympics. Matt had accumulated enough points to still finish second in league and he qualified for state. Sophomore Stephanie Wilson finished in second place in the slalom events, and also qualified for state. The two skiers did not fare so well at state, both falling down in their runs. The Lion skiers will return next year with four returning men's varsity skiers, and all six of the lady Lion's are returning. The girls team fought to make state, and barely missed out by not placing high enough in the last race. "The Mountain was great," said Matt Pearson, "...we had a lot of fun, but as far as the competition, well - - maybe next year.

Speaking through it all

Foreign Language at West Linn High School represents extended learning. Unlike most schools, West Linn's ability to offer four languages presents an experience beyond just learning to speak. The development of the Spanish, French, Japanese and German cultures were popular and fun in and out of the classroom.

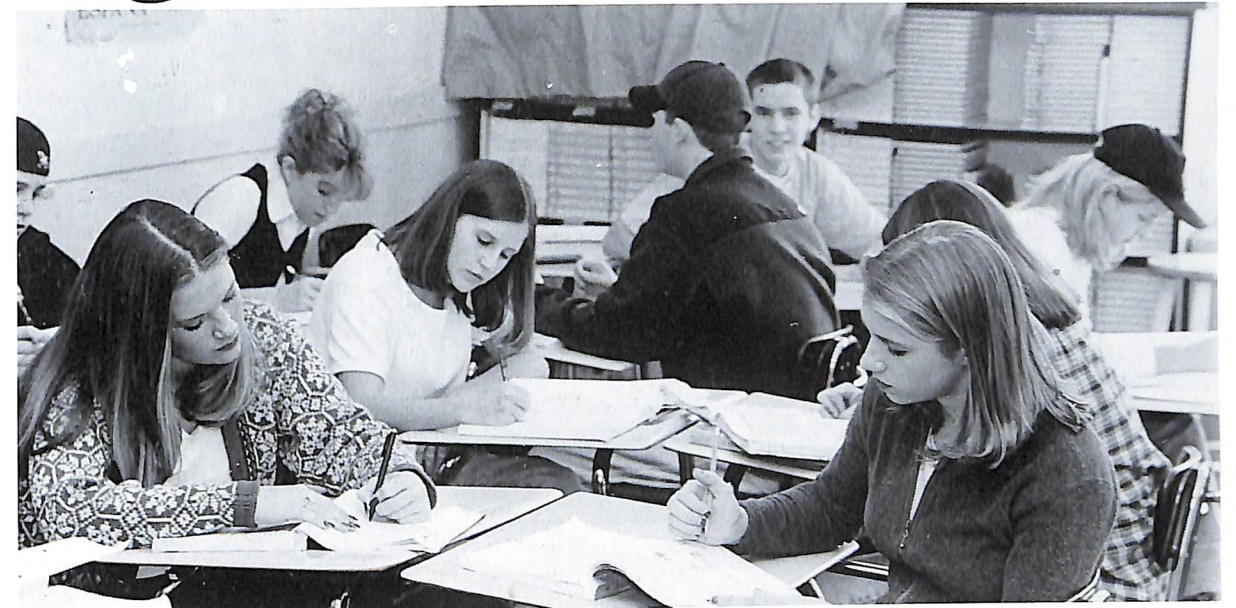

"West Linn had a greater number of students involved in foreign language activities than any other high school in the state of Oregon," reported Dave Leavell, the Spanish department head.

Activities ranged from role playing, parties, and singing, to occasional bookwork, tests and oral examinations. Students also had the opportunity to become involved in the school's foreign exchange program.

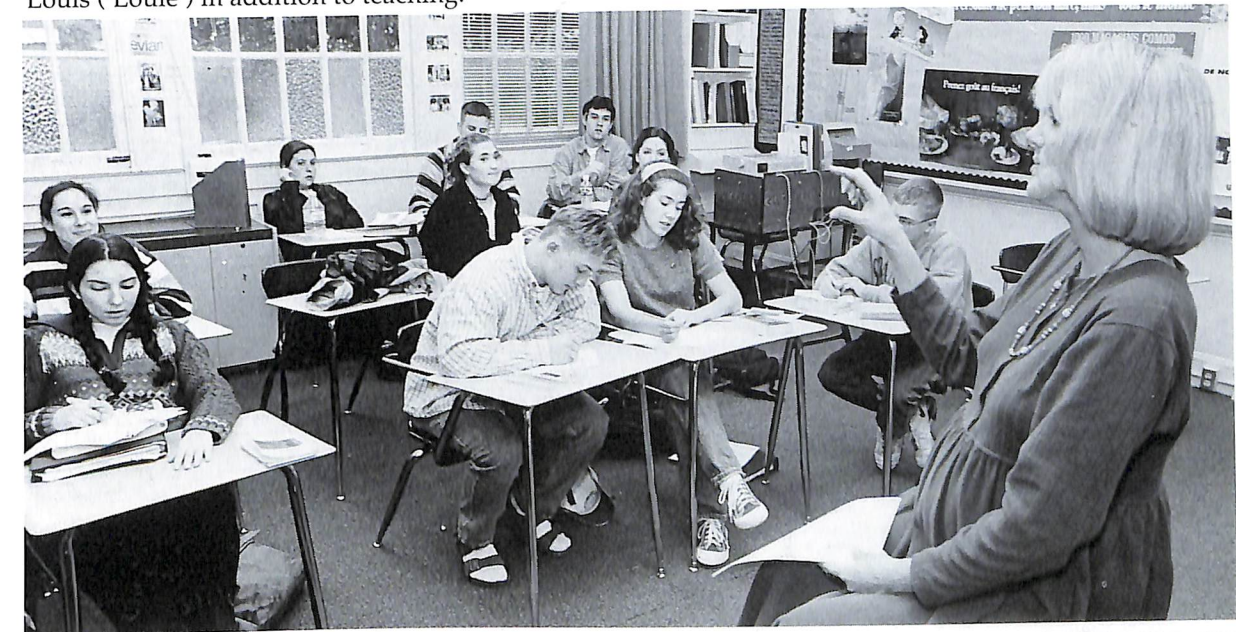

Another foreign language teacher said, "The language experience at West Linn is able to achieve a high communication level because students are directed, and share the sense of community involvement, that is in keeping with our goals as teachers in the language department."

Students were prepared for foreign jobs, family vacations, and impressing their dates by ordering dinner in French.

My favorite character in literature is Ishmael, the narrator of the story of Moby Dick. As I leave West Linn after ten wonderful years it is my hope that everyone associated with this school be "Ishmael-like": that is filled with curiosity and wonder, wanting to know more. The people of a school obviously create the culture of the school, and this school - West Linn High School - is a place of learning. I am deeply appreciative of all the students, staff and parents who have created this place where we all have been able to become more like Ishmael.

75th Anniversary Annual

Read the following if you wish to know who to thank for your yearbook

With just under 1400 students in the school, I guess its pretty ambitious for a student publication to attempt to get all those faces recorded in the Annual. That is our goal.

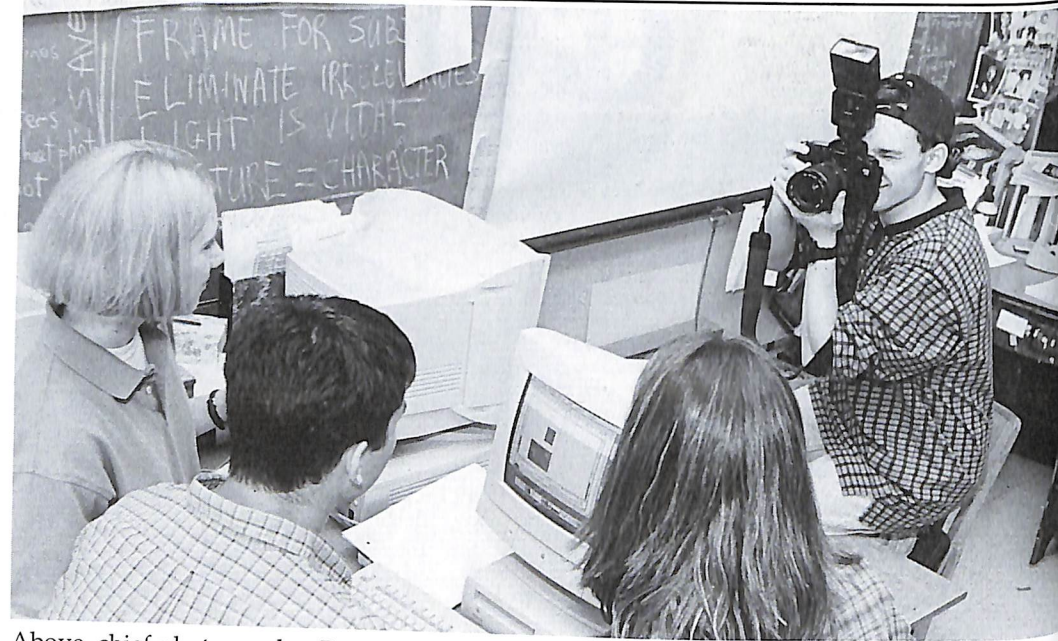

Obviously, students who are active in lots of sports and school activities will be better represented in the book and anyone who comes complaining that they're never ever in the Yearbook should ask themselves if they're involved in clubs, sports, plays, student government, dress-up days, assemblies, especially Homecoming and Mayday, or at least if they are always nice to photographers.

This yearbook was essentially pushed through to completion by about six students who not only were able to bear with the advisor, but who willingly gave generously huge amounts of their own time, determination and skill..

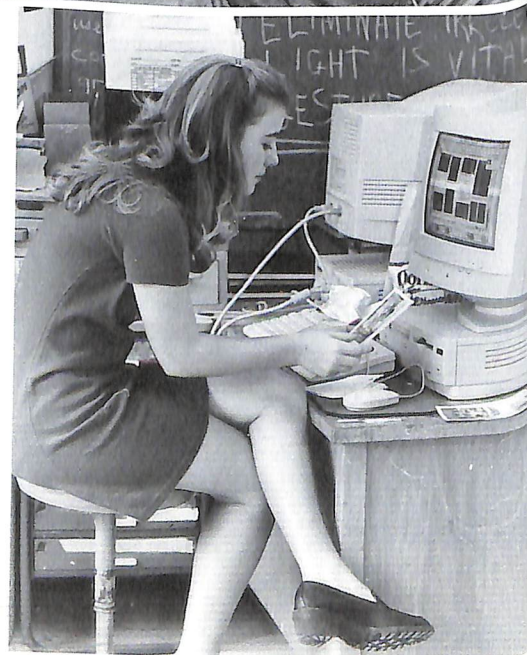

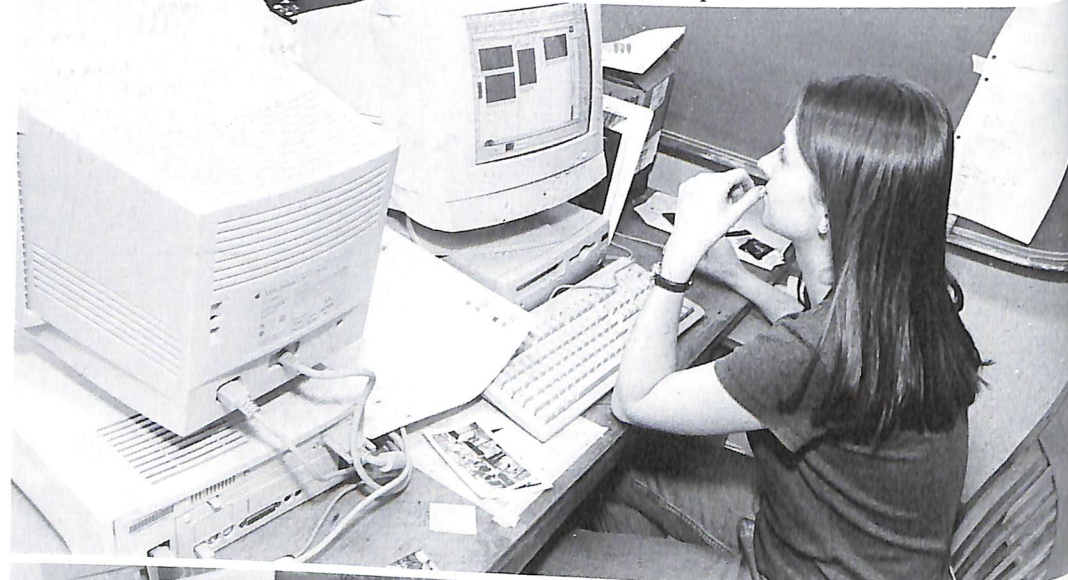

These include, Dana Massie, Tara Williams, Michelle Chrisman, John Hamlin, Valerie Ironside, Courtney Hicks, Melissa Goldman, Kathryn Schuh, Jasmine Peterson, Peter Metcalf, Kim Bingham, Aaron Burciaga and Erin Newberry and Hillary Beck who designed the cover. The backbone of a good yearbook is the photography staff; they have to cover a multitude of different events, give enormous amounts of their spare and not so spare time and try to be as fair and unbiased as possible. Thanks to Brian Planton, Ahren Dykman, Landis Forsloff and others.

The Amplifier

Due to the introduction of the trimester schedule for the '96-'97 school year, the school newspaper, The Amplifier had to reinvent the way it did business. During the first trimester the staff had to work after school to put the paper together since there was no class. Two papers were issued while the paper was a club. Overall the paper put out eight issues this year.

The paper is put together via a three part process. First story ideas are brain-stormed and assigned to various writers. Secondly, the writers then research and write their stories. Finally page editors (people responsible for laying out a specific page) take the stories, advertisements, photos, and other art and layout their page. This is a challenging, time consuming assignment. Once the pages are layed out on the computer, the editors then manually paste each page together before the newspaper can be sent to the printer. Two days after the paste-ups are delivered, 1400 copies of The Amplifier come back and the month long process begins anew.

To those who work on the paper, it is a hard but rewarding work. The Amplifier staff knew their efforts were worthwhile when they heard students say in the hall, "Did you read that story about such and such in the paper?"

"Being a member of The Amplifier has been an enlightening experience," said senior Gabe Carelton-Barnes. "I've learned a lot about both journalism and the way the school operates in general."

Overall the paper continued to improve both in quality of reporting, and layout throughout the year. Although it was a heavily senior staff, next year's staff with their energetic Advisor Mr. Bret Freyer, look to continue to build upon the success of this year's publication.

MEMBERS WANTED:

Looking for a club to join, here's one that will always have their broom closets open, Custodians of WLHS. Their members Kim Vachter, Claude Koch, Steve Ellis, Terry Sturman, Bob Stewart, and Bill Ray, can show you everything you've ever needed to know about picking up messes that aren't theirs. If you're ever in need of a group of good clean friends, drop by and their warm friendly faces will welcome you with open arms.

Everybody Loves To Argue: Speech and Debate

West Linn's speech and debate team grew from 20 to 30 people this year despite the transitions of five advisors in three years. Their raw talent was shown when they came away with three awards and two finalist positions from their first tournament. Members say tournaments made up of fun and games are far more popular than the interscholastic ones.

Trying to take over the School, Here's the West Linn Chapter of

F.B.L.A.

The Future Business Leaders of America

Growing from a nameless club last year, to one of gigantic proportions, F.B.L.A. has become the big fish in the pond of WLHS activities. From the Snack Shack, candy bar sales, to calls at home and excessive propaganda on the walls, this school has heard about F.B.L.A. However, few students know the story behind the club.

It was up to James Macauley and School Board member Mike Gates to boost this club to prominence. James, a senior, was FBLA National President. Mike Gates was simply an interested and concerned member of our community.

Before school really got started, a few interested members got together at our habitual meeting place, Round Table Pizza. From there, they began the 'Catch the Wave' membership drive, and had Junior Karl Katzke start the Snack Shack, taking over from the Lion's Den of previous years.

In April, Sophomore Briana Hamill, Junior Karl Katzke, and Sophomore Laine Aus were elected to positions on this year's state officer team. Bri is State President, Karl is Publicity Director, and Laine is District II Vice President. The rest of what happened this year is history. What will happen next year is the future. Because we're the Future of Business, the Future of America... We're the Future Business Leaders of America.

Band Seeing the music on the page...

The West Linn High School band program experienced a change this year when Evan Irwin left West Linn to teach at Vancouver High School. The new band instructor was Jeff Cumpston, a graduate of Sunset High School in Portland. He earned his masters degree in music at Portland State University and has played professionally for 20 years. He now plays the drums in a local band called the Art Abrams Swing Machine. He taught in the Beaverton School District for 13 years, 11 of those at Aloha High School. The students have adapted well to the changes. With the help of Jeff Cumpston, West Linn's band program will keep it's prestigious reputation as the best in the Three Rivers League

Matt Magee, Jessie Brown, Melissa Ransier, and Colin Hansen practice a saxophone quartet during access period. These four are most experienced sax players in the band program.

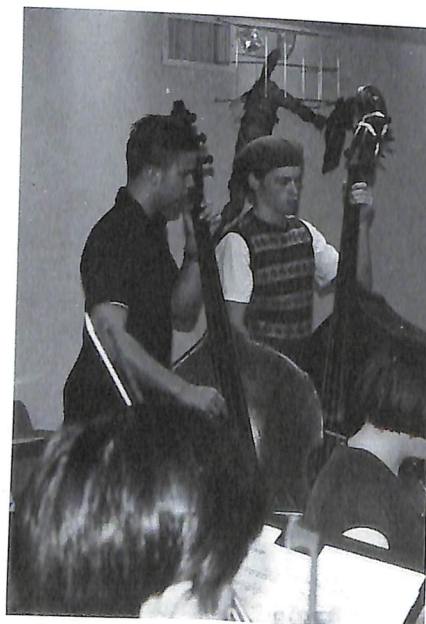

Bryan Davidson, Chris Shattick, and David Ely blast out The Fight Song at a West Linn Football game where temperature was in the low thirties! Brrr!

The West Linn High School Symphonic Band (made up mostly of juniors and seniors) practices during early period. Most of the students manage make it almost every day!

Orchestra

James Sours was new to West Linn High School this year. He has played in symphony orchestras all his life until three years ago when he started teaching at Cleveland High School as director for all bands, including orchestra. This year he says that the orchestra has a great deal of potential because all of the players are very talented. The Orchestra has seen the biggest improvement this year in the amount of school and community concerts. A concert was held at the West Linn Public Library, and the big festivals this year provided a good number of concerts for the musicians.

Pat Gamble and Gabe Salo both play the bass which sets the tempo for the piece they play.

Kathryn Schuh, Jacob DeGraw, Mike Teske, Gabe Salo, and Sam Ratti (all orchestra students) really know how to have a party.

Candy Seidle directs a group of advanced singers in the Jazz Choir class. Seidle was once a member of a rock and roll band.

The Treble Choir members sing their hearts out during practice for their Christmas concert. All of the choirs perform many concerts throughout the entire year.

Jake Bihl, Forrest Pixton, and Matt Curtis (members of the boys sextet) serenade Queen Ilanya Strauss at the Homecoming Assembly.

Choir singing through it all

Candy Seidle has not always been a choir teacher in the West Linn school district. She was in a rock and roll band for six years before becoming a teacher. She said that the stressful life of a performer was too much to handle with the responsibility of raising her son. Candy developed the fine arts department and was the head of it until 1992. There were not many kids into fine arts back in the eighties, but since numbers have doubled. The Jazz choir has won atleast one trophy per year since 1984, and in 1989, they went to Philadelphia where they took first in the country. This year, the Jazz choir toured Victoria, British Columbia where members sang in the same cathedral in which the pope sang when he came to Vancouver Island. The girls choir went to a competition in Newport to show off their jazz skills. Rodney Eichenberger, a famous opera singer visited with the choir for a day, helping them prepare for a contest.

Laura Fuller, Kara Westervelt, Anne Whitlock, and Leslie Justice prepare to serenade the Homecoming King.

A.S.B. President Gabe Carleton-Barnes asks for some advice from leadership advisor Mr. Hoss.

Always looking out for their school, A.S.B. & Student Council

This year at West Linn High School would not have been the same without the direction of its student government. These selected few were the driving force behind West Linn's student body. They put in long hours as they did their best at organizing activities, fundraising, promoting spirit, planning and participating in assemblies.

Each class council was in charge of planning different events taking place throughout the year. These activities range from the Freshman Penny Court to the Junior/Senior Prom. Each did a great job at representing their class and their school.

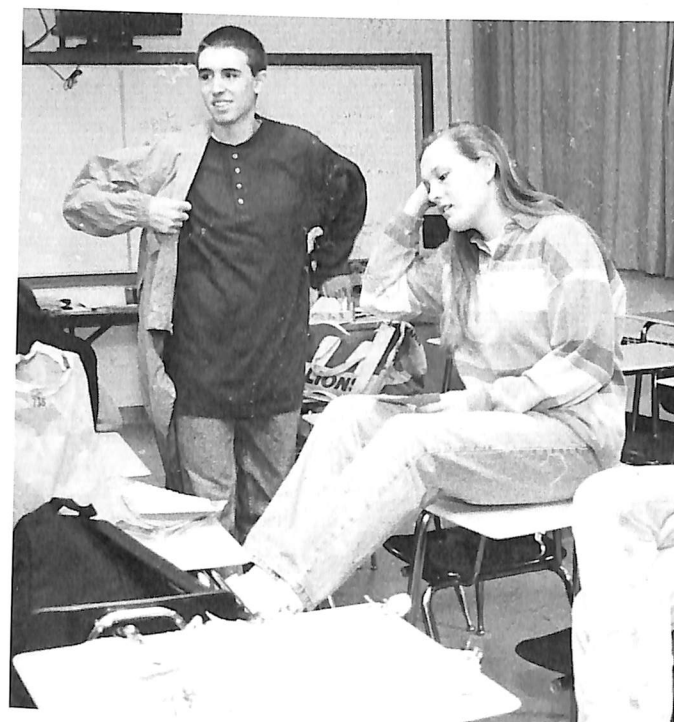

The A.S.B. was made up of eight officers, who devoted a lot of time to West Linn High School. We all enjoyed the various activities they spent time planning. The year would not have been the same without them.

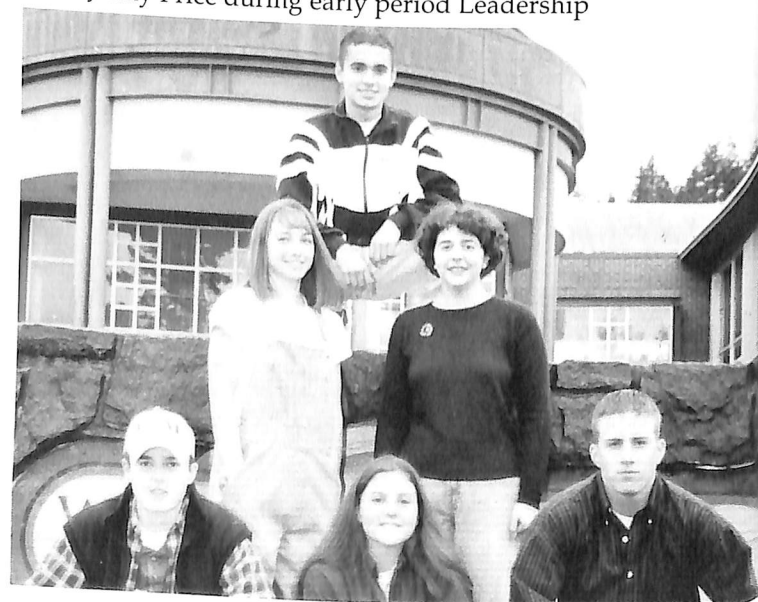

They're THINKING ! The A.S.B. officers take time to strike a pose for Brian Planton during a meeting in the A.S.B. room.

Sophomore council: Holly Rommel, Elsa Lubisich, Lindsey Beals, Mackenzie Foreman, Katie Ahern, Kim Butler

Junior council: Dan Groom, Drew Bennett, KimberLee Bingham, Whitney McLawhorn, Tiffany Fisher and Hilary Sieker

Katie Kelly A.S.B. Vice-President and Starbucks addict took charge of the Homecoming Carnival and the Maypole among other things.

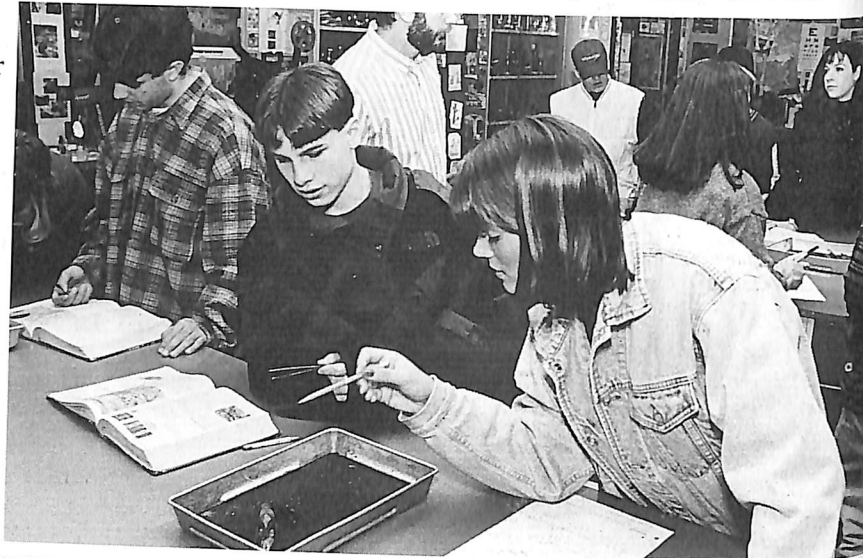

A few minutes into science teacher Jerry Kuykendall's review for the upcoming organic and biochemistry test, a student yelled across the room, "How come alkynes do not have cis or trans bonding?" Kuykendall turned around to begin answering the question by saying, "I'm a carbon." We all laughed at his slide into dramatics, but he had our attention. Over the next few minutes with the help of junior John Hamblin, Kuykendall demonstrated how carbons form double and triple bonds. Kuykendall and Hamblin, using their arms to form p-orbitals, showed what two carbons triple bonded together look like. It was a thoroughly entertaining demonstration, and it firmly drove home the point Kuykendall was trying to make. Now that is teaching.

At this point the yearbook staff would like to apologize to you if you can't find your face in the yearbook, or your name is misspelled, or you can't find any page numbers, or your add was lost, or your club or activity has been left out. Please remember that the book was entirely produced by volunteers who worked until July 4th to finish.

A very BIG THANKYOU to Michelle Crisman who never gave up and took responsibility through till the last day.

For Sara Clark
 "I hear babies cry
 I watch them grow
 They'll learn much more Than I'll ever know
 And I think to myself
 What a wonderful world!"
 Love,
 Mom and Dad

Dana Hayward Massie "Da Ba Do Day"

Where did you come from baby dear? Out of the everywhere into here. Where did you get your eyes so blue? Out of the sky as I came through. Where did you get that pearly ear? God spoke and it came out to hear. And how did they all come just to be you? God thought of me and so I grew.

I will not play at tug o'war. I'd rather play at hug o'war. Where everyone hugs instead of tugs, where everyone giggles and rolls on the rug, where everyone kisses, and everyone grins, and everyone cuddles, and everyone wins.

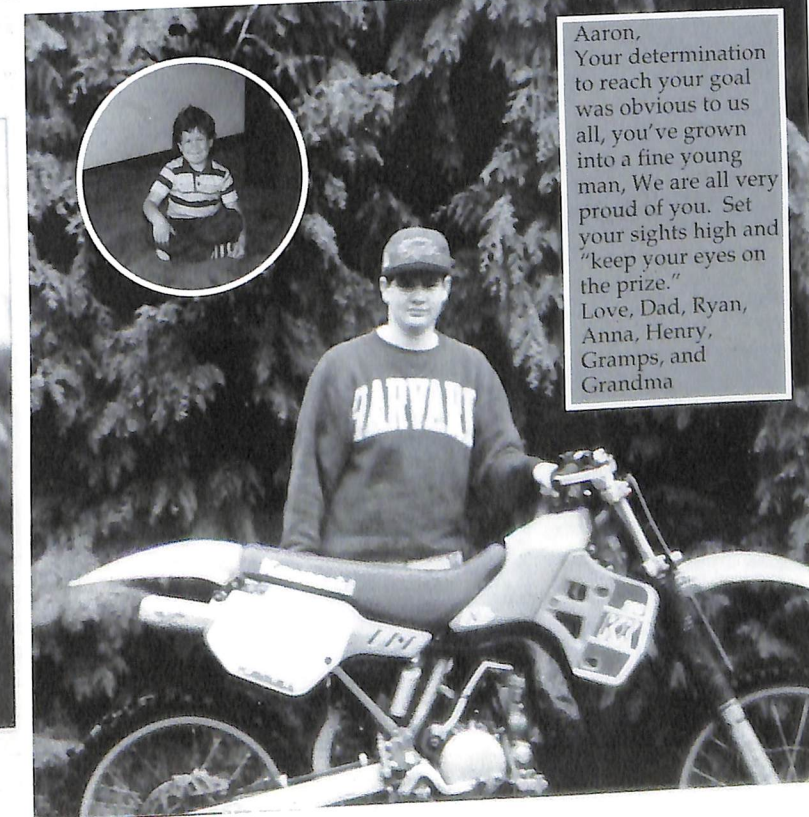

Dana, you are a woman of wisdom, spirit, strength, insight, purpose, courage, compassion, and creativity. Go forth with the fire of confidence in your heart, kindle it with care, and never let its brilliant flame go out.

We love you and are very proud of you,
 Mom, Dad, and Keaton

Cory

The world is waiting for you.
 We're proud of you.
 We love you and will miss you.

Dad, Barb, Justin,
 and Sam.

Aaron,
 Your determination to reach your goal was obvious to us all, you've grown into a fine young man, We are all very proud of you. Set your sights high and "keep your eyes on the prize."

Tracey,
We can always 'count' on you!! Good luck with the rest of your future- you make us proud! Love,

Grandma

To the Princess of Quite a Lot,
The old moon laughed and sang a song,
As they rocked in the wooden shoe,
And the wind that sped them all night long,
Ruffled the waves of dew.

The little stars were the herring fish
That lived in the beautiful sea,
"Now cast your nets wherever you wish, Never afraid are we"
So cried the stars to the fishermen three:
Wynken, Blynken And Nod.

We are so proud of all that you have done and all that you are.
Good fortune to you now as you spread your wings and fly away.

All our love,
Mom and Dad

"Perhaps there are moments of awakening, extreme, fortuitous, personal, in which we more than awaken, we sit on the edge of sleep, as on a elevator, and behold..."

Wallace Stevens

Valerie-Hold on to your dreams,
make each day count,

Sarah,

The realization of our hopes and dreams are believed by many to be brought to fruition solely as the result of one's karma Those ideals manifested along life's uncharted, oft' times difficult road are said to be commensurate with what is justly deserved

If true, Sarah, take heart Proceed undaunted Just buckle up, take a deep breath and keep your eyes wide open You're just beginning a long, exhilarating and richly rewarding drive!

We love you You make us proud
Mom, Dad, Sefanie and Kristofer (Fast)

Ryan,
Congratulations! You are a very special person who has filled our life with great joy. We are so proud of you!

Love,
Mom and Dad

Dear Jesse,

a quote from Alfred Lord Tennyson ,
And thou art worthy;
full of power, as gentle,
liberal-minded, great, consistent,
wearing all that weight of learning lightly like a flower

from Ghandi;
Happiness is when what you think,
what you say,
and what you do
are in harmony

and from Mom,
True beginnings always look,
and feel, like endings
Embrace and Soar, we love you,
Mom, Dad, Kathryn, & Joshua

Carolyn, you made it through high school time to make your dreams come true
We're proud of you
Love, Mom & Dad, Irene

Justin Keith Dean,

I am so proud of you! You have never disappointed me, son. As you go out into another phase of your life remember this:

Where you go determines who you meet.

Who you meet determines how you think.

How you think determines what you do.

What you do determines what you become...

The knowledge you have obtained will not give you power until it is used. Use all the knowledge you have gained and never stop adding to it. You can never go somewhere or meet someone you can not learn from.

Signed

Love, Dad.

Courtney-

May you have warm words on a cold evening. A full moon on a dark night, and the road downhill all the way to your door.

Love, Avery

P.S. I cannot even begin to tell you how proud I am of you-- it would take forever!

To Daylon-Moments in time...Graduation...Like so many moments in your 18 years, we have reason to cherish them all. We, as a family, now celebrate knowing the child you were and the person you have become.
Unique and excited about the life ahead of you. We applaud the dreams and ideas you aspire to. Keep in mind the joy of giving of yourself, fully in heart and effort, to all those sharing your future moments in time.
Life and love will surely smile back at you.
Always there for you with support and love-
Mom, Dad, Lori and Eric.

To Jeanie,
Your Carebear has been packed away with many other childhood toys. The memories, however, remain close at hand. You've grown up too quickly, but what a delight you are. You've gained many wonderful treasures during these past 13 years of school- friends, memories, knowledge, life! Take it all with you as you move forward. Be adventurous, take risks, and be a real life Carebear.
Love you A Lot,
Mom, Dad, Ben, Jennifer

Justin,
From your first day of pre school to your last day of high school, your smile
has never changed.
Always keep a smile in your heart and follow your dreams. They will take you to wherever you want to go...

EPH 4:17-32
PSALM 23

Are you willing to pay the price? If you are willing to do, for the rest of your life, what most people will never be able to do!

Fawn,

My love and concern for you is immeasurable. I want the very best for your life, just like our Heavenly Father does. He assures us He is with us and will never leave us, plus, He wants to bless us.

When you decide to do what most people are not willing to do, I want you to know I will be beside you and encouraging you to go for it.

"Go For His Blessings!"

"Go for the 'BEST' life has to offer!"

Love,
Dad

Wake up Derek-
